

Kofi Akuamoah is research assistant at Taylor Crabbe Initiative.

He was handpicked by Nana Tawiah Okyir in 2013, following a handwritten paper on Human Rights Abuses under the 1992 Constitution, to undergo an internship program at a previous Firm. There, Kofi further demonstrated his skill when he joined a sub-team to research for the Ghana Civic Education Manual and the Reviewing and Drafting of new bye-laws to govern the Akuapim North Municipality.

He has since remained a part of Taylor Crabbe, working mostly part time as he pursues a Bachelor of Laws degree at the Ghana Institute of Management and Public Administration (GIMPA).

Kofi has an interest in writing and is an avid blogger, once featured on “The True Beauty of Africa”. He has also represented the GIMPA Moot team and The GIMPA Debate Society and practices spoken word poetry and legal fiction in his spare time.

Kofi hopes to learn as much as he can and hopefully culminate his skills fully into the field of Military Law in the near future.
